

ABSTRACT

Described herein are methods and kits for the detection of hepatitis C virus RNA in biological samples obtained from human subjects. The invention includes novel amplification primers and probes useful in the amplification of DNA derived from hepatitis C virus RNA, and kits and methods which incorporate the novel primers.